

Hawai'i Watercolor Society Teachers/Instructors

Many of our HWS members are teachers as well as artists. Here you can find a list of member-teachers that includes short descriptions and contact information. Reach out to them if you are wanting to join a class, get private instruction, or check out a different style. If you are an instructor and would like to be added to our roster, please fill out the registration/information form.

I teach from beginners to intermediates, though many very good watercolorists attend my classes to pick up some refreshers and to gain insight to my style. My style is loose and I like to mix the colors on the paper, letting them play out in the washes. I like to look for the little opportunities that watercolor always provides. I like to work on anything from urban scenes, to landscapes, florals, and portraits.

I am a watercolor artist, designer and entrepreneur. I teach beginner/intermediate watercolor skills, watercolor florals, beginner landscapes, and digital file preparation for printing art derived products. I also do personal coaching and mentoring on ethical art business practices, art product development, and manufacturing. Classes taught online or in-person, either individually or in a small group setting.

My favorite students are absolute beginners from 7 to 77 years old. I love sharing my joy and wonder of watercolor's power of expression of any style at any level.

Contact me for a current list of classes, to book private lessons, or all-inclusive workshops.

The improvisation in each painting commands a respect for the medium and its ever-changing characteristics that when successful leave behind a visible emotion on the paper.
